The Paris peace talks off dead center.

"We have gone as far as we can or should go in opening the doors to negotiations which will bring peace," he said. "It is now time for the other side to sit down with us and talk seriously about ways to stop the killing."

Later when Nixon and Thieu made remarks before television cameras and radio microphones on the steps of Saigon's equivalent of the White House, the U.S. president said it is clear to all the world "which side has gone the extra mile" in an attempt to promote peace.

"Now it is time for the other side to respond," he added, with Thieu at his side.

Nixon said the United States and South Vietnam have made a peace offer "which is as generous as any ever made in the history of warfare."

"It is a peace of reconciliation that is offered," Nixon continued "a peace in which the people will decide, a peace that is just for both sides, a peace which is fair to both sides, a peace which offers an equal chance to both sides."

"We have gone as far as we can or should go in opening the door to peace and now it is time for the other side to respond. Otherwise the other side must assume the responsibility for the continuing suffering among the people who have already suffered much too long both in South and North Vietnam."

Without advance notice and under tight security and secrecy Nixon and his wife interrupted a three-day stay in nearby Thailand during their round-the-world trip for the quick dash into South Vietnam by presidential jetliner.

It was the first visit ever by a U.S. president to Saigon. Nixon's visit differed in that respect from the two quick journeys former President Johnson made to the war zone in 1966 and 1967.

Nixon noted that this was his eighth visit to South Vietnam and that in 1953 he also visited Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam.

Smith Deputy Prosecutor in Miller

NORMAN M. SMITH

Prosecuting Attorney W.H. (Dub) Arnold announced today that Norman M. Smith, formerly of Hope, had been appointed Deputy Prosecuting Attorney of Miller county.

Mr. Arnold stated that the office in Miller county is a full-time job and needed a person with experience and ability to assume that job. Arnold further said that Mr. Smith had done an outstanding job in this county and from this recognized Smith's ability to handle the duties in Texarkana.

Mr. Smith was vice-president of the Hempstead County Bar Association, member of the Hope Kiwanis Club and he and his family are members of First United Methodist Church in Hope. He is a graduate of the University of Arkansas School of Law.

Negroes Win Local Vote in Alabama

EUTAW, Ala. (AP) — Negroes have won control of the Greene County Commission and Board of Education in an election which their leaders say signals the end of white political domination in Alabama's Black Belt.

ing result is that some pictures show a ragged edge on the southern polar cap, possibly caused by the presence of mountains or craters. This is new information.

The cap's dark spot, which the spokesman said had not been noted before and which he could not explain, showed on frame 30. Another feature of final shots was that the north polar cap, barely visible in early pictures, stood out brightly.

Experts at the laboratory, which built Mariner and controlled its flight, had expected the photos to be about equal in quality to those from earth telescopes, but they failed to match in clarity a simulation of earth pictures that was flashed on a monitor screen for comparison.

Television screens showed Mars on its side, with the equator vertical. The egg shape was because part of it was in night shadow.

The laboratory spokesman said static interfered with television reception but much better photos will be obtained by running the signals through a computer, eliminating the noise, then printing them photographically.

Mariner 6 is followed by five days by Mariner 7, similarly equipped and on a similar mission. Their cameras and other instruments are assigned to determine whether Mars, one of the sky's most intriguing bodies, can harbor life. It is known to have a thin atmosphere, clouds, seasonal color changes, lines some have likened to canals—all of which has caused some astronomers to conclude it could have intelligent life.

Revival Begins at McNab

A gospel meeting begins at the Church of Christ in McNab, Monday night, August 4, and will continue through Friday, August 8, with Roy Balkcom from Hooks, Texas, doing the preaching, and John Cannon from Prescott directing the song service.

Charge Cut to Murder 2nd Degree

WARREN, Ark. (AP) — A charge of first-degree murder was reduced to second-degree murder Tuesday as the selection of a jury began for the trial of James Ray Ederington, 19.

The youth is charged in the March 30, 1967, slaying of James Henry Maroney Jr., 39, a farmer who was slain with a .22-caliber rifle in his home in the Bradley County community of Lanark.

Maroney was arrested five weeks after the slaying when he was 17 and in a five-day trial was convicted of second-degree murder. The state Supreme Court later overturned the conviction saying two sets of testimony should not have been admitted in the Circuit Court.

going to spread all over the Black Belt," the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy told a victory rally Tuesday night after unofficial returns showed Negro candidates swept the special election.

The six black candidates in the election ordered by the Supreme Court captured four of the five county commission seats and two school board seats for majorities on both governing bodies. In this county the population is 83 per cent Negro.

Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), and Dr. John Cashin, head of the National Democratic Party of Alabama (NDPA) predicted that the election results would inspire Negroes to new goal gains throughout the old plantation region called the Black Belt. The best, named for its dark soil, is predominantly Negro.

"We've got to elect more black people," Abernathy said at the rally. He mentioned offices of the county sheriff, probate judge and superintendent of schools.

Cashin said in an interview the NDPA, a splinter group loyal to the national Democratic party, would use the Greene County election as a springboard for winning political offices in 15 to 20 other Black Belt counties.

Names of the NDPA candidates were left off the ballot last November by Probate Judge Dennis Herndon—the chairman of the county commission—on grounds that they had not properly qualified.

The high court ruled that the NDPA slate had been subjected to "desperate treatment" and ordered the special election.

New Test on Pornographic Mailings

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle over sex through the mails has moved into the Supreme Court with the first test of the government's power to guard mail-boxes against "pandering" advertisements.

A group of mailers who traffic in "adult" books, magazines, films and sex paraphernalia leveled a series of constitutional objections at the 1967 law that gave citizens the right to control their mail.

The mailers' appeal is important for several reasons: (1) It could lead to a ruling killing the 1967 law; (2) It could dampen Congress' willingness to enact even stronger legislation proposed in May by the Nixon administration; (3) It poses the first important test of the Burger court's view of obscenity.

The 1967 law provides that any person who receives an advertisement he believes to be "erotically arousing" or "sexually provocative" may ask his local postmaster to direct the advertiser to stop sending mail to him.

If the advertiser refuses to strike the name from his mailing list, the local U.S. attorney may move for an injunction. If the advertiser disobeys an injunction he may be held in contempt of court.

The law took effect April 15, 1968. Since then, the Post Office has issued about 10,000 orders to mailers to knock certain people off their mailing lists. Only once so far, in New York City, has the government moved into court to try to enforce the law.

That case, directed at "Dynamic Intercourse" and "Voodoo Eros," is still unsettled.

Winton M. Blount, the postmaster general, told Congress earlier this month advertisements for hard-core pornography are growing rapidly.

Blount complained that at the same time "the judicial definition of obscenity has grown increasingly restrictive." He urged Congress to enact the administration's legislation to toughen the 1967 law.

This would be done in two main ways.

First, a citizen could ask the Post Office to move against an advertiser even before the citizen receives any objectionable ad.

Second, the Post Office would draw up a master list of complaining citizens and mailers would be obliged not to send them "erotic, sex-oriented advertisements."

Lawrence Speiser, director of the Washington office of the American Civil Liberties Union, contends the 1967 law "makes a censor of each and every citizen in the country."

He says at one time or another censorship groups have managed to ban the works of every winner of the Nobel Prize for literature. "Some idiots see obscenity everywhere," Speiser says.

Elective Judge O.K'd by Panel

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Constitutional Convention, for the second straight day, approved today a proposal for the election of Supreme Court judges at large.

Today's vote was 56-24. The delegates voted 48-36 Tuesday in favor of the proposal.

The vote would mean that the state Supreme Court judges would continue to run on a statewide basis rather than by districts.

Television and Radio

By JERRY RUCK
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Four-teen series in the new television season will have blacks in star-ring of leading roles.

The number is slightly ahead of last season. Five series in which blacks played roles were canceled and five were added. In addition, football star Rosey Grier joins the cast of "Daniel Boone."

But, says a report by two Michigan State University researchers, the roles, dress and language of blacks on television — at least in past seasons — still are very white.

Dr. Bradley Greenberg, associate professor of communications, and Joseph Dominick, graduate assistant, compared two average weeks of viewing in the 1967-68 and 1968-69 seasons.

The researchers also found that the percentage of blacks playing major roles remained the same both seasons. However, the number of black actors playing "second bananas" to white heroes increased in the latest season.

Concludes the MSU researchers: "Television feels a need to project black images, but really doesn't know how."

The networks aren't likely to offer any realistic portrayals of black roles soon. Television has never been one to pioneer, and after the uproar over "violence and sex" the industry is offering as low a profile as possible in all areas in the coming season. Besides, it is doubtful that blacks are any more anxious to see a situation comedy about the ghetto than whites are to see the poverty of Appalachia in "The Beverly Hillbillies."

Said Bill Cosby: "I think the reality of what happens in the news is depressing enough. A black man on a walk through life wouldn't last 13 weeks." Hal Kanter, the creator of "Julia," said, "I'm not an anthropologist or a sociologist. He said he sees nothing wrong with suspending reality and offering an underprivileged child a dream."

The Michigan researchers pointed out that most black actors played "good" characters. The most popular professions in the first season were musicians, doctors and soldiers. In the current season there was a black law enforcer and black cowboy. Blacks, they found, were slightly more apt to take orders than to give them.

Among the new shows, Cosby and Lloyd Haynes of "Room 222" play school teachers, Lee Weaver, who plays Cosby's brother, is a garbage collector. Earl Rhodes in "The Bold Ones" is a district attorney.

SHE'S HALE BUT AILING

Dear Helen: My mother is "ailing." She's been ailing most of her life, although she is as strong as a horse, when she wants to be — and she eats like one too. If it isn't her heart, it's her liver, or her back, or some fancy name for an ailment she probably hasn't got in the first place. The "doctor" has never found anything wrong with her. She doesn't have many interests, dislikes going places, sits most of the day, and won't spend her ample inheritance because she "may need it for the hospital." Her only diversion: Talking to a few gossiping neighbors, when she isn't mad at them.

If I tell her she isn't really sick, she gets furious. She was this way before she lost Dad, so it isn't due to widowhood. Is there any way to change a hypochondriac? — NEARBY DAUGHTER

Dear Daughter: Probably not at this late date. A chronic "Ailer" enjoys her aches, for when she has little else to interest

Dear Helen: You said jealousy is a result of self-dislike. This is a good thought, but, in my case, jealousy was a cover-up because I was fighting a desire to be unfaithful myself. It is easy to transfer feelings we are ashamed of and guilty about to someone else, and then blame HIM for them.

I used to throw horrible jealous fits, cry hysterically, lie awake at night suffering over my hue. Then slowly it dawned on me that though I was happily married to an attractive and exciting man, I secretly yearned for an affair.

Yes, I gave in to my longing, and the fear and jealousy stopped. Everyone is much happier, especially my husband who comes home to a contented, loving wife. If he is unfaithful, I no longer care, I realize that we are both deeply committed to making our marriage a good one and that no occasional fling can intrude on our private lives. I feel very lucky to be attractive to another man besides my husband. If he is tired or preoccupied or worried about his job, I don't attribute it to some fault of my own, and after a while he bounces back to his old exuberant, passionate self. Meanwhile I am receiving the attention I yearn for from someone else better able at the moment to give it.

I know this isn't the answer for everyone, but it works for me.— HAPPIER WITH TWO

Dear Happier: Would it "work" with your husband, if he found out? Seems to me a tired and worried man needs to know his wife is standing by, not lying down on the job.— H.

Letter Tide Reverses, Opposes EMK

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Herald Traveler said today that the vast majority of letters received by the paper say Sen. Edward M. Kennedy should resign from the U.S. Senate.

The paper said telephone calls after Kennedy's television appearance last Friday, in which he commented on the auto accident which took the life of a young woman passenger, were 2½ to one in favor of his remaining in the Senate.

He had asked the advice of Massachusetts residents in determining whether he should resign.

The Herald Traveler said that as of Tuesday, 14 letters favored Kennedy remaining in the Senate and 103 were opposed.

Thirty of those opposed and five of the 14 in favor were from out of the state.

St. Louis Blasts San Diego 10-4

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
For the first time in three weeks a Cincinnati Reds pitcher didn't leave for an early shower... the same couldn't be said for the thunder in the Atlanta Braves bats.

The Reds edged to within three games of the Braves in the red-hot scramble for the top spot in the West Division of the National League with a 4-2 victory over Montreal Tuesday night behind the steady four-hit pitching of left-hander Jim Merritt.

San Francisco stopped Chicago 4-2 in the only afternoon contest while the Los Angeles Dodgers split a twin-night doubleheader with the Pittsburgh Pirates, losing 4-2 in 10 innings before taking the nightcap 6-5.

The Giants were two games behind the Braves while the Dodgers are a game back.
St. Louis blasted San Diego 10-4 and the Houston at New York twin-nighter was rained out.

The Braves lost a chance to gain ground when they exploded for seven runs in the second inning and were leading 8-0 after three innings over the Phillies in Philadelphia when the rains came. After a wait of 52 minutes, the umpires postponed the twin-night twin bill and the Braves' avalanche of base hits was washed out.

In Cincinnati, however, Reds Manager Dave Bristol didn't mind his lack of a shower until after the game.
"Did you notice I didn't go to the mound at all tonight," Bristol remarked after the game.

"Matter of fact, it might have been the only time I haven't gone to it this season."

It was the first complete game by a Red starter since July 8. And only the 13th complete game by the Cincinnati staff. Merritt owns five of them as he upped his record to 10-4.

The Expos' Merritt for three of his hits in the fourth inning with Jose Herrera's double getting in both Montreal runs. The Reds had taken a 2-0 lead on Chico Ruiz' two-run single in the single.

The Braves had Phil Niekro lose what appeared to be an easy victory, which would have given him 16; Hank Aaron miss out on two doubles; Orlando Cepeda lose three RBI and two singles; Tony Gonzalez saw his two RBI and single go down the drain; and Philadelphia fans saw Richie Allen, in his first appearance before the home crowd after a 26-day suspension.

Allen, the Phils' first baseman, was showered with a chorus of boos and he responded by blowing kisses toward the stands.

Personality of Week Is Hank Aaron

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron is a baseball superstar who doesn't act like one.

No tantrums for the "Hammer." No controversies. No way-out clothes or worn-out cliches.

No feuds with newsmen or fights with fans.
"That's not my style," says Aaron, who plays the game with a style all his own.

Graceful is the best way to describe the Atlanta Braves' slugger, who has been playing that way in the big leagues for 16 seasons.

And the way he's going this summer, he may be able to go on forever.

At the ripe old age of 35, Aaron is having one of his finest seasons.

He has hit more home runs than all but Willie Mays and Babe Ruth, has the best lifetime batting average at .314 of anyone now playing, and ranks as one of the best outfielders in baseball history.

Aaron's name is in nearly every record book, but it came up missing last week on the all-time and modern baseball teams picked by fans.

Aaron, quietly proud of his baseball accomplishments, didn't complain. Some of his fans did.

"There's no way you can name an all-star team for any era and leave Aaron off of it," said Fred Haney, who watched Aaron hit three home runs, bat .393 and drive in seven runs when Haney managed the Milwaukee Braves to victory over the New York Yankees in the 1957 World Series.

Aaron was named the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1957. He has played in the All-Star games 15 straight years, led the league in batting twice, set the pace in runs batted in four times, and led in homers four times.

Critics claim Aaron lacks the exciting flair of a Mays or a Mickey Mantle.

"I can't make basket catches or do things like that," says Aaron, whose defensive play is so fluid that he makes impossible catches look easy.

He wastes no motion in the batting box, aims in the game. He's also one of the game's top baserunners, and usually leads the Braves in stolen bases. He's swiped 222 during his career.

Aaron keeps hinting that he is close to retirement as he moves nearer his goal of 3,000 hits.
"That's 99 left and counting," Aaron said after pushing his hit total to 2,901 with a double and the 536th home run of his career last week.

But he doesn't seem to be slowing down, and former teammates can't see much difference in the way he plays now than when he broke in as a rookie in 1954.

Aaron's trademark as a hitter has been line-drive shots cracked with a swing of his powerful wrists.

Jets Given Edge Over All-Stars

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — The betting gentry warily is making the New York Jets little more than an early two-touchdown favorite over the collegians in the 36th All-Star Football Game at Soldier Field Friday night.

The Jets, propelled by Super Bowl hero Joe Namath, could win going away in the first appearance by an American Football League club in the colorful classic long dominated by champions of the National Football League.

But a certain mystery hovers over All-Star Coach Otto Graham's All-Star squad which has been drilling at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., since July 11. Thus, one early line here has the Jets pegged as 13-point favorite.

The NFL holds a 24-9-2 edge in the All-Star series.

Graham has assembled a 50-player squad without such bickering top pro draftees as O. J. Simpson of Southern California, Leroy Keyes of Purdue, Joe Greene, heralded defensive tackle from North Texas State, split end Ron Sellers of Florida State, and tight end Ted Kwalick of Penn State.

The odds-makers are uncertain whether a collegiate squad, still packed with 17 of pro football's 26 first-round draft choices, can come up with more voltage than the Jets expect.

Graham, in his ninth All-Star appearance, calls his squad the hardest working and most aggressive he has handled. They got their pro baptism against the St. Louis Cardinals in a game-type scrimmage last Saturday and yielded a 6-0 victory.

The collegians made plenty of errors, but they showed a potential passing attack behind quarterbacks Terry Hanratty of Notre Dame and Greg Cook of Cincinnati and, more important, appear alive on pass defense.

Defending against the superb passing of Namath may be the name of the game in Friday night's Chicago Tribune-sponsored contest to be televised nationally, via the American Broadcasting Company (9:30 p.m., EDT).

Hanratty and Cook have exceptional receivers in ends Gene Washington of Stanford and Jim Seymour of Notre Dame, plus the All-Stars' most dangerous runner, halfback Paul Gipson of Houston.

The Jets arrive Thursday afternoon from their Hempstead, N.Y., training base.

Elsewhere three Kansas City Chiefs were shaken up in a 20-minute goal line scrimmage in preparation for Saturday's game against Oakland at Birmingham, Ala.

Mike Garrett bruised his thigh while defensive end John Sponheimer and defensive tackle John McCambridge suffered twisted ankles.

Coach Wally Lemm of the Houston Oilers announced Pete Beathard will start against the Buffalo Bills in the AstroDome Saturday night.

Rookie Onree Jackson, the first egro drafted to be used primarily as a quarterback, was cut by the Boston Patriots. "It's just a little too much for him now," said Coach Clive Rush.

Bart Starr threw touchdown passes to Donny Anderson and Carroll Dale as the Green Bay Packers went through a rugged scrimmage. Defensive tackle Jim Weatherwax competed in his first contact work in almost a year and said his injured knee felt good.

Roger Staubach, backup quarterback to Craig Morton for Dallas, was back in uniform after suffering a slight injury and is expected to see action today.

Golf's Major Prize Is the Westchester

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — The pro golfers go after the tour's richest purse—$250,000—Thursday in the Westchester Classic, and one of the season's most illustrious fields, including defending champion Julius Boros; the 1967 victor, Jack Nicklaus; U.S. Open titleholder Orville Moody; Masters champion George Archer; the new British Open king, young Tony Jacklin of England; and Monday's Canadian victor, Tommy Aaron.

Present and bidding for the $50,000 windfall are all the winners on the 1969 PGA program. Center of attention will be Dave Hill, who has jumped into the money winning lead, and Sam Snead, the 57-year-old star of a bygone era who tied for the Canadian title only to lose to Aaron in a playoff.

The foreign list, besides Jacklin, includes Gary Player of South Africa, Bob Charles of New Zealand, Al Balding of Canada, Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, Bruce Crampton and Bruce Devlin of Australia.

"Twenty-five years ago I said golfers on the tour would some day be playing for a million dollars a year. Most people thought I was crazy. They said it was a pipe-dream."

"Now they are playing for more than $6 million, and the end of the rainbow isn't in sight. I can foresee the day that rich sponsors and the television networks will get together for a tournament that could stagger the imagination."

"The first prize could be a million dollars."

Corcoran, a bull-necked Boston Irishman who was tournament director of the Professional Golfers Association in the late 1930s and 1940s, is credited with putting the tour on its present spiral course.

"In 1937, the total purse for 30 tournaments was $140,000," Corcoran said. "Lighthouse Harry Cooper was leading money winner that year with $14,200."

"Fellows today wouldn't sneeze for that kind of money."

Right now, the golfing gypsies must be content to play for Westchester's $250,000, with $50,000 going to the winner. "I think I've found my choking price," millionaire Arnold Palmer once said as he took aim at the rich prize.

Palmer, without a victory this year, will be one of the 150 players teeing off Thursday morning over the 6,667-yard, par-72 Westchester Country Club course.

Pneumonia Puts McLain Out of Game

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Tangling with a pneumonia bug and the Minnesota Twins on the same day can bring the toughest Tiger to his knees. Denny McLain isn't even certain which hits harder.

McLain was sent home from Minnesota Tuesday night ... with a touch of pneumonia, according to a team spokesman ... after being shelved for nine runs in 4-1-3 innings as the Twins completed a 5-2, 11-5 doubleheader sweep over the Detroit Tigers.

Dr. Len Michienzi, a Minnesota club physician who examined McLain, prescribed rest for the Tigers' 15-game winner, who was running a high fever.

"I haven't felt very good for three, four days and knew something was wrong," McLain said before leaving for Detroit. "But this isn't an alibi for losing. I had pretty good stuff, but every ball they hit was a shot."

The Twins cuffed McLain, 15-6, for 11 of their 17 hits in the nightcap after prevailing over 14-game winner Mickey Lolich in the first game. They hadn't beaten either of the Detroit aces since the 1967 season.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland nipped the New York Yankees 6-5, Baltimore downed Kansas City 4-1, California topped Boston 4-3, Washington trimmed Seattle 4-2 and Cleveland won a pair from the Chicago White Sox, 4-3 in 11 innings and 9-5.

In the National League, San Francisco beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2, Cincinnati took Montreal 4-2, St. Louis trounced San Diego 10-4 and Pittsburgh split a doubleheader with Los Angeles, bowing 6-5 after a 4-2 10-inning victory. The Houston-New York Mets and Atlanta-Philadelphia twi-nighters were rained out.

McLain, won 31 games last season and has sparked again this year despite arm trouble and dental problems, was "quite ill" before the Tigers left Detroit Monday, his business partner, Stan Drail, said Tuesday night.

"McLain's no baby about pain, though," Drail added. "I wouldn't be at all surprised if he takes his next regular turn."

The Twins, beaten eight times in succession by the 25-year-old right-hander, raked him for seven runs in the fifth inning. Tony Oliva's two-run tape-measure homer keying the uprising. Rod Carew stroked two singles in the inning and Leo Cardenas and Ted Uhlaender each drove in two runs.

In the opener, Lolich worked seven innings and allowed just five hits. But one of them was a two-run double by Oliva and another was a two-run homer by Carew ... the first home run off the Detroit southpaw this season.

Jim Perry blanked the Tigers until the ninth, extending his scoreless string to 25-2-3 innings, and picked up his 12th victory against four setbacks.

Pinch hitter Ramon Webster's two-run triple and Bob Johnson's pinch single in the eighth gave the Athletics a 6-4 lead before relievers Paul Lindblad and Ed Sprague snuffed out a ninth inning New York rally, stranding the tying run on third.

Reggie Jackson slammed his 40th homer for the A's and the Yankees' Joe Pepitone drove in three runs with a single and his 20th homer.

The Orioles breezed to their fifth consecutive victory since the All-Star break as left-hander Mike Cuellar scattered eight Kansas City hits, Paul Blair drove in two runs with a double and single and Boog Powell poled his 28th homer.

Jay Johnstone cracked a leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth, sending the Angels past Boston and out of the West cellar for the first time since May 9.

The Senators snapped a 2-2 tie at Seattle on successive eighth inning homers by Ken McMullen and Bernie Allen, enabling right-hander Joe Coleman to square his season mark at 8-8.

Duke Sims drilled a game-winning homer in the 11th inning of the Cleveland-Chicago opener and the Indians exploded for six runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap. Eddie Leon capping the burst with a three-run homer.

The White Sox, who have lost seven in a row, slipped into last place in the West, one-half game behind California.

Securities Chief Eyes Private Job

By JOHN M. PEARCE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission said he would like to become president of six mutual funds if his boss—apparently President Nixon—approved, Senate sources say.

A source close to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee quoted the report Tuesday night from minutes taken when directors of the six mutual funds managed by Investors Diversified Services Inc. met in Minneapolis June 12 to elect SEC Chairman Hamer H. Budge their new president.

Budge and representatives of the funds and IDS were called before the subcommittee today to explore a "possible conflict of interest."

The minutes, as quoted by the committee source, identify George E. MacKinnon, vice president and general counsel of the funds, as approaching Budge about the job. MacKinnon was confirmed May 1 and sworn in June 14 as a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbls.

Nixon nominated him April 23.

Budge, reached at his home in Washington Tuesday night, declined to comment. He insisted in a statement last week he had rejected the offer and had done nothing improper.

MacKinnon was away from his home in Minneapolis and could not be reached.

Nixon was a director of four of the mutual funds from late 1964 until May 1968. He and MacKinnon served in the House together during the mid-1940s and MacKinnon was a U.S. attorney in Minneapolis when Nixon was vice president.

In the last two years of the Eisenhower administration he was a special assistant to William P. Rogers, then attorney general and now secretary of state.

The sources said MacKinnon and Harold Bradford, the 66-year-old president of the six funds, interviewed Budge May 16, between MacKinnon's confirmation and seating.

On May 23 the funds' executive committee adopted a resolution favoring Budge and on June 12 the full board of directors and the separate boards of the six funds voted to elect Budge president subject to his acceptance.

It was at the joint meeting that day that the minutes said: "The chairman inquired of Mr. MacKinnon whether he had heard anything recently from the person chosen to be president. Mr. MacKinnon said that he had talked to him on several occasions, including last evening, and had been informed that he would like to accept the offer of the directors and that it would be entirely in order for the boards of directors in their separate meetings to adopt appropriate resolutions subject, however, to the wishes of his present boss who might want to ask him to remain in his present position for a period of time to make an orderly transmission to his successor."

Budge, a Republican, was appointed to the commission by President Johnson. He was named SEC chairman in February and given a full five-year term on May 28.

His negotiations with the IDS-controlled funds came at a time when the SEC had been asked by the Banking and Currency Committee to investigate the "face amount certificate" business.

IDS, the largest mutual fund concern in the nation, has 95 percent of the "face amount" business. It provides half the company's net annual profit.

A face amount certificate is usually sold at a discount, for less than the face maturity value, and frequently on the installment plan. Many pay less than 4 per cent interest over 20-year or more maturity periods, and the contracts are written so that commissions and service charges are deducted during the early years of the certificate's life.

Muskie Not Writing Off Kennedy

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, often pointed to as a potential Democratic presidential contender in 1972, says it would be premature to discount Edward M. Kennedy's political future.

"I would never count a Kennedy out of anything," said the Maine Democrat, whose 1968 vice presidential campaign made him a possible future White House contender.

"I wouldn't operate on the assumption that Ted Kennedy's troubles—and I suppose he has troubles—would be of any political advantage to me," Muskie said of the accident in which a girl riding in Kennedy's car was killed.

"I wish him well in every way," Muskie said. "If his political posture has not been weakened, I would be delighted."

Until the accident a week-and-a-half ago, Kennedy was thought the front runner for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination. But the incident, particularly Kennedy's failure to report the accident to police for more than eight hours, caused speculation that his chances have been greatly reduced.

Muskie acknowledged he had not after a recently completed six months of transcontinental speaking that Kennedy could have the 1972 nomination for the asking.

He said the accident controversy may have brought about "an unfortunate shift in his fortunes" but that it would be premature to make any such judgment now.

"It is an unmeasurable thing at this moment," Muskie said. "The continuing tragedy and continuing phenomena of the Kennedy family does not lend it-

Kenney has not appeared in the Senate since July 18 when Miss Mary Jo Kopechne drowned after a car the senator was driving plunged off a bridge. Kennedy later delivered a television message asking the people of Massachusetts to help him decide whether to keep his Senate seat.

Richard C. Drayne, Kennedy's press secretary, told reporters Tuesday his boss is undecided "whether or when" to return to the Senate. "He has not reached any kind of a decision," said Drayne.

The Boston Globe reported Tuesday in a copyrighted story that a telephone poll of 517 Massachusetts voters showed 78 per cent favored Kennedy remaining in his seat.

Democrats Rap Burger Picture Use

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic party official has accused the Republicans of exploiting Warren E. Burger's position as chief justice "for narrow partisan purposes."

Alvin A. Spivak, public affairs director of the Democratic National Committee, blasted the Republicans for publishing a newsletter showing a picture of the new Supreme Court chief with A. Linwood Holton, Republican nominee for governor of Virginia. Labeled "Domination Power," the picture also included President Nixon and Mrs. Holton. It appears in this week's issue of "Monday," a weekly, four-page publication which goes to some 15,000 Republican party leaders.

"The chief justice should be—and is—above partisanship, and for the Republicans to use him in such a blatant political manner is unfair to Mr. Burger in casting doubts upon his non-political role," Spivak said in a statement.

Ken Riets, director of information for the Republican National Committee, said the picture was taken July 20 after a White House church service and is intended to show "a situation at the White House."

HOPE NEWSPAPER HISTORY:
The 1929 consolidation joined the two principal newspaper lines dating back to within five years of Hope's incorporation in 1875.

1899 — Star of Hope founded as a weekly by Claude Mc-Corkle; converted to an evening daily by his son, Ed. McCorkle, publishing until the 1929 consolidation.

The opposition line:
1880 — Hope News founded by Lowry Brothers.

1883 — Sold to Withers & Johnson, name changed to Hope Telegraph.

1883 — Later in same year resold to Claude McCorkle and renamed Hope Mercury.

1884 — Sold to James H. Betts, who named it Hope Gazette, under which name it was published continuously until 1922, published by
Betts, J.L. Tullis, and Col. W.W.
Folsom the last-named dying in 1916.

1916 — Purkins & Gates bought the weekly Gazette and made it a companion paper to their new daily, Arkansas Evening Herald
— but both papers suspended in 1922.

1926 — Plant was revived by Curtis Cannon as the weekly
Hempstead County Review.

1927 — Cannon sold plant to D.A. Gean, who established the morning Hope Daily Press.

1929 — C.E. Palmer and A.H.
Washburn consolidated The Star and the Press as Hope Star, with Palmer as president and Washburn secretary-treasurer.

1957 — Following Mr. Palmer's death Mrs. Palmer became president.

1969 — With Mrs. Palmer's retirement from Star Publishing Co. Washburn became 76 per cent owner and president — balance 24 per cent being held by Texarkana Newspapers, Inc.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Academy Makes Report On Artificial Sweeteners

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Because there has been a great deal of confusion about the safety of artificial sweeteners, a committee of the National Academy of Science made a thorough study of the matter. They found that, although saccharin and cyclamate are both used, the consumption of cyclamate is about five times that of the former. About 70 per cent of the cyclamate consumed is found in carbonated soft drinks. A 12-ounce can contains 0.25 to one gram of this substance.

The Academy reported that, while an adult might safely consume five grams of cyclamate a day, prudence would limit the daily intake to 3.5 grams and for a child about 22.5 milligrams per pound of body weight a day. Even at higher levels of intake, however, the only side effects observed are a softening of the stools and an increased risk of sunburn (increased photosensitivity).

Occasionally, one hears that, because these products are derived from coal tar, they are harmful. This is illogical, because aspirin and several other products that cannot be described as poisons in the usual sense are also derived from coal tar. If they were poisonous, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) would prohibit their sale. The coal tar derivative that has caused cancer in mice is in no way related chemically to the artificial sweeteners.

After reviewing the Academy's report, the FDA recommended that products containing cyclamates be labeled to show the suggested limits on its daily intake and the total cyclamate content of the bottle or can. This should reassure the users of their safety—an important measure in view of the fact that the per capita consumption of sugar in this country is now five times as great as it was 100 years ago and the fact that this is a contributing cause of the increased prevalence of diabetes, dental decay and hardening of the arteries.

Q—I am a diabetic. Does saccharin destroy any of the food value in what one eats? Does it have any harmful side effects?

A—No to both questions.

The costume is still a favorite for fall. From the Portulco-Jo Copeland collection comes this black-and-silver ensemble. The sleeveless dress beneath has a shirtdetail hemline, jeweled buttons and scooped neckline.

We wish to thank each one who sent flowers, food, cards, and made visits during the recent illness and death of our dear loved one.
Our special thanks to Dr. Jim Martindale, the special nurses, and the entire staff at Memorial Hospital.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Today's hand is taken from a match point quiz in Jeff Rubens' new book.

We have filled in the East and West hands so that you can see that the spade finesse is going to work. Therefore, it is easy to see that it will pay declarer to take it at his one no-trump contract in a match point game.

The play starts with West opening the queen of diamonds. East takes his ace and returns the suit. South wins the trick, cashes four hearts and then must start on the spades. He can be sure of one no-trump by simply taking the ace and king. He makes an overtrick with a successful finesse and goes down if the finesse fails.

There is no problem in rubber bridge. He takes his contract.

In match point duplicate, he must go after the overtrick. He has responded one no-trump to his partner's heart bid and knows that many other players will have raised to two hearts. Playing at two hearts, either North or South will make eight tricks without trying the spade finesse. He needs that eighth trick at no-trump to transfer a poor score of plus-90 to a good score of plus-120.

There is another reason to take the spade finesse at this one no-trump contract. It is possible, but not probable, that some East-West pairs will get into the bidding. They do have eight spades and almost half the high cards in their hands. Two spades will make if West holds the queen and go down one if East has it. Thus, one no-trump, down one, won't be a bottom score if the spade finesse loses, while you will need that plus-120 for two no-trump to beat any pair that defeats a two-spade contract one trick in the event the spade finesse wins.

Modernization of the bicycle, reportedly, started in 1962 when two partners in a San Diego bike shop noticed that kids were coming in to buy stray parts and putting together their own cycle variations. The partners put together a few creations of their own for sale during the Christmas season of 1962.

The Schwinn Bicycle Co. heard about the customized bikes, checked them out and decided to build and attempt to sell 5,000 during 1963. By the end of that year youngsters to the number of 47,000 were wheeling Schwinn's Stingrays. And the revolution has continued unabated.

Last year about 7.5 million bicycles were sold. Of the total 75 per cent were high-ride models.

Beside colored tires there are some other new accessories worth noting. Included are warning lights that revolve like those of emergency vehicles (in miniature, of course), fancy rear-view mirrors and radios.

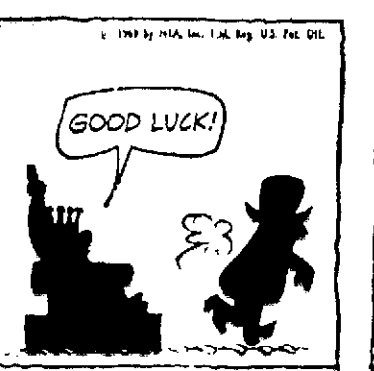

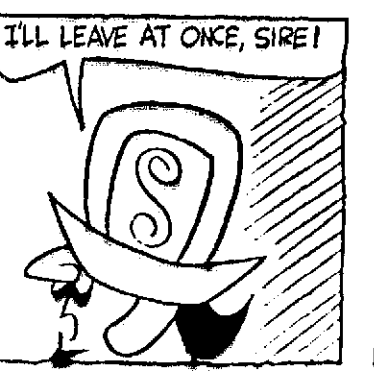

So much for the frivolous bike set, the banana-seat-and-high-risers. The more serious bikers—one in every seven persons has a bike—are pushing, in 1969, bike safety and Bike Holiday programs under the sponsorship of the Bicycle Institute of America. For help in getting "bikeways" and "bike routes" established, write the organization at 122 E. 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017.

Recreation-Travel

By JIM CROSSLEY

For almost a century, the bicycle has been a solid, respectable vehicle of transportation. It has been about man's third or fourth best friend. All of a sudden, the old faithful is wearing false eyelashes, gone mod, gone mini, gone hip.

Colored tires are the very latest. Other recent innovations—gear shifts, padded "sissy" bars, glowing "banana" and bucket seats—weren't enough. Pretzel-shaped, high-rise handlebars, steering wheels, wide-tread and racing slicks didn't do it. "Mag" wheels and elongated frames still fell short. Goodyear had to go and introduce a whole line of vivid tire combinations such as green tires with bright orange sidewall stripes. Or yellow tires with black stripes.

There are five such combinations in the "Crazy Wheels" line.

The new tires, just hitting the general market, survived an unusual test period. At St. Helen's Parish School at Newbury, Ohio, 97 pupils ride bicycles. They are a big thing at the school. For months the 97 have been torturing the "Crazy Wheels" to see how they make it.

Modernization of the bicycle, reportedly, started in 1962 when two partners in a San Diego bike shop noticed that kids were coming in to buy stray parts and putting together their own cycle variations. THE DOCTOR SAYS

Academy Makes Report On Artificial Sweeteners

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Because there has been a great deal of confusion about the safety of artificial sweeteners, a committee of the National Academy of Science made a thorough study of the matter. They found that, although saccharin and cyclamate are both used, the consumption of cyclamate is about five times that of the former. About 70 per cent of the cyclamate consumed is found in carbonated soft drinks. A 12-ounce can contains 0.25 to one gram of this substance.

The Academy reported that, while an adult might safely consume five grams of cyclamate a day, prudence would limit the daily intake to 3.5 grams and for a child about 22.5 milligrams per pound of body weight a day. Even at higher levels of intake, however, the only side effects observed are a softening of the stools and an increased risk of sunburn (increased photosensitivity).

Occasionally, one hears that, because these products are derived from coal tar, they are harmful. This is illogical, because aspirin and several other products that cannot be described as poisons in the usual sense are also derived from coal tar. If they were poisonous, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) would prohibit their sale. The coal tar derivative that has caused cancer in mice is in no way related chemically to the artificial sweeteners.

After reviewing the Academy's report, the FDA recommended that products containing cyclamates be labeled to show the suggested limits on its daily intake and the total cyclamate content of the bottle or can. This should reassure the users of their safety—an important measure in view of the fact that the per capita consumption of sugar in this country is now five times as great as it was 100 years ago

The costume is still a favorite for fall. From the Pattullo-Jo Copeland collection comes this black-and-silver ensemble. The sleeveless dress beneath has a shirtdetail hemline, jeweled buttons and scooped neckline

We wish to thank each one who sent flowers, food, cards, and made visits during the recent illness and death of our dear loved one.

Our special thanks to Dr. Jim Martindale, the special nurses, and the entire staff at Memorial Hospital. And to Elder Paul Daniels and Bro. Gordon Renshaw, our very special friends for their many words of comfort. Your kindness and thoughtfulness will always be gratefully remembered.

Today's hand is taken from a match point quiz in Jeff Rubens' new book. We have filled in the East and West hands so that you can see that the spade finesse is going to work. Therefore, it is easy to see that it will pay declarer to take it at his one no-trump contract in a match point game.

The play starts with West opening the queen of diamonds. East takes his ace and returns the suit. South wins the trick, cashes four hearts and then must start on the spades. He can be sure of one no-trump by simply taking the ace and king. He makes an overtrick with a successful finesse and goes down if the finesse fails.

There is no problem in rubber bridge. He takes his contract.

In match point duplicate, he must go after the overtrick. He has responded one no-trump to his partner's heart bid and knows that many other players will have raised to two hearts. Playing at two hearts, either North or South will make eight tricks without trying the spade finesse. He needs that eighth trick at no-trump to transfer a poor score of plus-90 to a good score of plus-120.

There is another reason to take the spade finesse at this one no-trump contract. It is possible, but not probable, that some East-West pairs will get into the bidding. They do have eight spades and almost half the high cards in their hands. Two spades will make if West holds the queen and go down one if East has it. Thus, one no-trump, down one, won't be a bottom score if the spade finesse loses, while you will need that plus-120 for two no-trump to beat any pair that defeats a two-spade contract one trick in the event the spade finesse wins.

Why Explore
Space? Here
Is the Answer

Why spend millions to put men on the moon, some among us ask, when science has known for a generation that the moon is a lifeless desert? But you have your answer in the unmanned space flights to Mars, pictures from which are now being shown the American public.

The moon is a vacant world, but science is by no means certain that Mars doesn't sustain life of one sort or another. Mars does have an atmosphere, although suspected of containing unpleasant ammonia. Of all the planets Mars is the one that scientists think is most capable of supporting life—though fiercely divided on what kind of life it might be.

The foremost proponent of the theory that there is intelligent life upon Mars was the late American astronomer Percival Lowell, 1855-1916. Lowell was a most respected astronomer in his day, and the books that he wrote about his observations of Mars made him world famous. I read most of them. Mars has the equivalent of Earth's Arctic and Antarctic polar caps, and straight lines which seem to connect the polar regions with the equator. Lowell observed that when the Arctic cap melted in the spring the lines running toward the equator turned from brown to green—and the same thing happened in Antarctica in the fall.

Arguing that straight lines don't exist in nature, Lowell developed the following theory:

All planets gradually lose water from their atmosphere, slowly with big planets and a strong force of gravity, but faster with small planets and lessened gravity. Mars being smaller than the earth it has lost much of its water, Lowell argued, therefore a superior intellect dug canals from the two poles to make water available to the mid-belt of the planet twice a year. Vegetation revived by this Martian irrigation system caused the lines (or canals) to turn from winter-brown to spring-green, he concluded.

Half the scientific world applauded Lowell, the other half scoffed—and the fight was on.

It's been going on for a generation—a dispute which may be close to settlement as scientists' newest instruments now get history's closest look at the fabled red planet. Mars is worth spending money on, a genuine challenge—whereas the moon was known in advance to be empty and dead.

But only through the skills learned in putting men on the moon can we hope to learn more about Mars and others in our solar system.

And put in this light the spending of millions to reach the moon was worth while.

El Salvador Agrees to Withdraw

WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative agreement was reached early today by the Organization of American States for a settlement of the 16-day old El Salvador-Honduran crisis.

Terms of the peace settlement were reached after El Salvador, in a surprise move, agreed to withdraw its troops, which have occupied Honduran soil for the past two weeks.

The Salvadoran decision was announced by its foreign minister, Francisco J. Guerrero, Tuesday afternoon but it was only after long and acrimonious debate that the details of the settlement were tentatively agreed to.

The settlement provides for the immediate withdrawal of Salvadoran troops from Honduran territory accompanied by certain guarantees for the safety of the some 285,000 Salvadorans residing in Honduras.

It also urges that both nations bring to trial persons guilty of having "committed crimes and violated the human rights" of Salvadorans living in Honduras and vice versa.

Texarkana Vote Kills Annexation

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Texarkana voters Tuesday defeated the proposed annexation of about 3,000 acres of land bordering the city's existing limits. The vote was 283 for the annexation, 723 against it.

Stiff Fight Facing Gun Control Bill

By G. DAVID WALLACE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

parliamentary gambit, Nixon administration support and crucial shifts in the Senate have given an added push to attempts to rip some key provisions out of last year's Gun Control Act.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, announced he had administration backing as he reintroduced a bill Tuesday to remove restrictions covering 90 percent of the ammunition sold in this country.

Bennett's bill was bolstered by eight cosponsors whose positions represent a change from last year, when they or their predecessors voted with the 41-36 majority in beating back an attempt to exempt shotgun, rifle and .22-caliber rimfire ammunition from the act.

The law prohibits a person from buying, either in person or through the mails, any guns or ammunition outside the state in which he lives.

In addition to exempting the ammunition from the law, Bennett's bill would also specify—and in effect cut back—the information required of gun and ammunition buyers.

Bennett has contended requirements by the Internal Revenue Service—which administers the 1968 law—to have buyers provide physical descriptions, weapon caliber and serial number amount to "back door registration."

Administration spokesmen from Treasury, the Justice Department and Internal Revenue Service testified last week against further gun restrictions but stopped short of recommending any deletions from the existing act.

The spokesmen argued for state initiative in gun control and urged the present federal law be given time, to see how it works.

The administration position represents a departure from the policy of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, who complained on signing the law that it wasn't strong enough.

Johnson's Justice Department also supported inclusion of shotgun, rifle and .22 rimfire ammunition, which the department estimated accounts for 90 per cent of the nation's gun sales.

Bennett's old bill, and companion measures in the House, were referred to the House Judiciary Committee chaired by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and the Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee headed by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Bennett's new attempt involves bypassing those panels. "It has been made quite clear to me that the House Judiciary Committee has no intention of considering and reporting any firearms or ammunition legislation in the 91st Congress," said Bennett.

The new bill, rewritten to amend a different section of the law yet accomplish the same purpose, would go to the Senate Finance Committee, chaired by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., and the House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark.

Israeli Jets Hit Syrian Guerrillas

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli jets crossed the Syrian and Lebanese frontiers today to hit Arab guerrilla concentrations in the foothills of Mt. Hermon, the army announced.

The 15-minute air attack was in response to a recent increase in sabotage activity in the area, a spokesman said.

The army spokesman listed eight incidents of sabotage in the region since July 1.

This was the first reported air attack inside Lebanon by the Israelis since they attacked the international airport at Beirut, Lebanon's capital, last December in retaliation for an attack on an Israeli jetliner in Greece by Palestinian guerrillas.

Lebanon has sought to discourage the training of Arab guerrillas on its territory for fear of Israeli retaliation.

Berryville Kills Annexation

BERRYVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Annexation of 4,000 acres by the city of Berryville was rejected Tuesday by Berryville voters, 232-419. The territory marked for annexation almost surrounded the city's existing limits.

Movies Show Landing on the Moon

By MIKE COCHRAN

Associated Press Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston

(AP) — For seven minutes television viewers rode the lunar module Eagle to a landing on the moon.

They watched movies Tuesday of the moonship as it descended to the pocked surface July 20, veered away from a hazardous, gaping crater and touched down amid outflung lunar dust.

And they saw Neil A. Armstrong go cautiously down a ladder, pause, and then plant man's first footprint on the moon.

This was the first of the Apollo 11 movie footage in color and it captured much of the drama of the landing by Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

The color films were shown to newsmen at the Manned Spacecraft Center and transmitted simultaneously by network television to viewers across the country. Part of the adventure was televised live July 20, but that was in black and white.

The first still photographs, also in color, were sprinkled with footprints and eerie silhouettes of the spaceship, and showed the American flag perched on the beach-like surface.

A second set of stills, released Tuesday night, caught Armstrong inside the lunar module, showed the landing site from above and rocks on the lunar soil. This set also included a picture of earth with Europe, Africa and Asia visible.

The 16 millimeter movie film opened as the Eagle approached the landing site, cratered and glowing and visible through Aldrin's right-hand window.

It was at about this point 10 days ago that a worldwide audience, tuned in to the space conversation, heard this exchange: Miss control: "Eagle, looking great . . . you're good!"

Eagle: "700 feet . . . 300 feet . . . got the shadow out there . . . 200 feet . . . things looking good . . . lights on . . . 40 feet . . . picking up some dust . . . 30 feet . . . faint shadow . . . Houston, Tranquillity base here. The Eagle has landed."

The film moved along then to Armstrong's descent and historic first step and his initial activities on the moon's surface.

The film closed with a view of the American flag, wired for a waving effect and surrounded by footprints.

Viet Cong Seeking Full Pull-Out

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — A top negotiator for the Viet Cong says it is working during the current lull in the war for a total withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam, the Long Island newspaper Newsday reported today.

In a copyright story from Verrieren-le-Buisson, France, reporter Marilyn Berger questioned Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh, foreign minister of the provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam, about the significance of the drop in enemy military activity.

Mrs. Binh replied, "The people of South Vietnam have been acting so that American troops will totally withdraw from South Vietnam. We are acting and working in all fields to reach that objective."

Later she said, "Our aim is not to exterminate American troops. Our goal is to win back our national independence and to drive away the American troops from South Vietnam."

Newsday quoted U.S. diplomatic sources in Paris as saying they would have to study the text of the interview before making any comment on it.

Sen. Dirksen Faces Angry Farm Group

By LAWRENCE L. KNUITSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capitol police plucked Sen. Everett M. Dirksen from the midst of shouting, fist-shaking farmers Tuesday, ending a confrontation over protests that U.S. farm policies are leading to rural ruin.

The 200 farmers, wives and children—who drove from Illinois, Dirksen's home state, in a caravan of tractors—surrounded the Republican leader as he emerged from the Senate chamber.

They demanded a return to full parity in farm prices and a stronger voice for farmers on all future federal agricultural policies.

When Dirksen told his constituents he is one of 20 senators supporting a bill to take up to 10 million acres of farmland out of production and to end existing farm programs within five years, he was answered with shouts of, "No! No!"

The shouting got louder when he responded to a request that he buy a bushel of grain at the parity price—$3.06 compared to about the present market value of about $1.05—by pulling a $20 bill from his wallet. He told the farmers to give the change and the wheat to the poor.

"We want parity, not charity," the farmers shouted, echoing the slogan that has been their rallying cry during the long trek from their east-central Illinois homes.

"I'm talking," Dirksen boomed back, refusing to accept the return of the money or the sacks of grain piled at his feet.

He said his bill, which is backed by the American Farm Bureau Federation, would raise farm prices by cutting back production.

"What's wrong with a farm program tied to parity," a farmer in overalls shouted. "We'll take the land out of production now if you give us a fair price," another man said.

"We can't hold farm meeting in this reception room," Dirksen said, waving his hand at the ornate crystal chandeliers and gilded walls.

"You can't make a demonstration here," he told the crowd that jammed the room. "It will disturb the Senate."

"Don't push us around," a man yelled at Dirksen.

The noise attracted capitol police who wedged their way through the throng and opened a path for Dirksen to retreat to the Senate floor, where his colleagues were debating the surtax bill.

Pink Dress Gets Girl Most Luncheon Bids — Girl-Watcher Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: One ironic fact about the national inflation is that it helps some people's health. They are now no longer able to afford or do things that are bad for them anyway.

Girls who wear pink dresses to the office during summer months get the most luncheon invitations. Try this, girls, and see for yourselves.

It isn't necessary to perform great deeds in order to win attention. Small deeds will gain you a local fame, too—even if all you do is to set out to become the first guy in your neighborhood to learn Esperanto after the age of 50.

Celebrities often bore us when they insist upon inflicting their views on us at great length, but nobody is too busy to stop and enjoy watching a small child pick its nose.

Ever notice how long it takes for a woman to find the cash in her handbag when she's in a hurry—and how quickly she can fish out her lipstick when she feels she really needs it?

The annoying thing about our woes is that, as soon as we try to brag about them in public, someone always tops us with woes that are worse. For example, as soon as you complain about having to wear some new bifocals, you run into half a dozen fellows who say they've had

Memorial Fund for Slain Trooper

Sgt. Freddy McKinley of the agency will administer the fund, Scott said.

New Details of Mars in Pictures

By RALPH DIGHTON

AP Science Writer

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —

Mars-bound Mariner 6 has sent to earth long-shot photos showing features new to scientists: ragged edges on the mystery planet's south polar ice cap, perhaps due to mountains or craters, and a dark spot in the cap's center.

Another batch of closer pictures, scheduled for transmission back to earth tonight, may reveal more that is new.

Highlight of the tiny spacecraft's 156-day, 241-million-mile journey comes Thursday when it transmits close-ups after skimming within 2,130 miles of Mars to try to see if the red planet is capable of supporting life.

In three hours across 58 million miles of space Tuesday night, the 850-pound flying instrument platform returned 32 2-3 pictures taken earlier between 771,000 and 450,000 miles altitude.

Most of the shots, shown at five-minute intervals on television monitors at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, were dim and fuzzy, depicting an egg-shaped body with the south polar cap gleaming on the right side. Few features were distinguishable.

The frames were made 10,000 miles apart and as the final few flashed on screen, landmarks well known to astronomers from telescopic photographs from earth came into prominence.

The ragged cap edge became visible on frame 20, causing a laboratory spokesman to comment: "Perhaps the most exciting

Pine Bluff Turns Down Annexation

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — Pine Bluff voters Tuesday turned down the proposed annexation of almost 12 square miles of territory. The vote was 2,328 for annexation and 3,046 against it.

Among the areas to be annexed was the Watson Chapel area. An attempt to annex it in 1966 also was defeated.

The proposed annexation area was in three other sections—the Jefferson County Industrial park on the north, a square mile area on the city's southeast, and a section between U.S. 65 and Princeton Pike on the northwest.

FBI Called Into Coed Slaying Case

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — Michigan authorities today took control of the manhunt for the killer or killers of seven young women in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area—and called for assistance from the FBI.

In a joint press conference in Lansing Mich. Gov. William G. Milliken and Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said the director of the Michigan State Police had been placed in charge of the manhunt and that the U.S. attorney general had been asked to provide FBI assistance.

"Atty. Gen. John Mitchell assured us of the federal government's desire to cooperate in the fullest extent possible and said the specific request for FBI involvement would get a very early response," Milliken said.

So far, slayings of seven young women in the adjacent college towns of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti have mocked police efforts to find a killer or killers.

The body of the latest victim was found Saturday night in a ravine in a thickly wooded area between the two southeastern Michigan cities.

The girl, Karen Sue Belne-man, an 18-year-old Eastern Michigan University coed, will be buried today in her hometown of Grand Rapids.

While Milliken and Kelley were announcing the state had taken control of the investigation, the man who had been in charge, William F. Delhey, Washtenaw County prosecutor was in Hazard, Ky., checking out a lead in the story.

Delhey, accompanied by Washtenaw County Sheriff Douglas Harvey, went to Kentucky Tuesday night to question a man whom Hazard city police had admitted killing a girl in Ypsilanti.

A similar confession by a jail inmate in Nashville, Tenn., in one of the earlier murders proved to be false.

Hazard police said the man was taken into custody along with two teenage girls Monday and was charged with reckless driving and carrying a concealed weapon. A large knife was found.

Hazard police identified him as a 19-year-old youth from Monroe, Mich., which is south of Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti.

The girls, according to police, were from Dundee, Mich. Police said the parents had retrieved the girls Tuesday.

In other developments Tuesday the Washtenaw County sheriff's department released a detailed composite picture of a young man, who Ypsilanti store clerks said gave Miss Belne-man a ride on a motorcycle last Wednesday when she was slain near Ypsilanti.

Milliken and Kelley met in Lansing for several hours Tuesday, before the two top state officials announced there would be a news conference.

The announcement will deal with an "extraordinary situation that requires extraordinary action," said George Weeks, press secretary to the Michigan governor. He would not elaborate.

However, the Detroit Free Press today said "considerable confusion and lack of coordination between police agencies are interfering with the investigation."

A special task force of 25 detectives from five police agencies was created recently.

Kidnaper Sentenced for Life

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Ronald Wayne Brady, 22, of Muldrow, Okla., was sentenced to life in prison Tuesday by U.S. District Court Judge Paul X. Williams after Brady pleaded guilty to kidnapping.

Later, Brady pleaded guilty to state charges of rape and grand larceny. Judge Paul Wolfe sentenced him to 30 to 90 years on the rape charge and 21 years on the grand larceny charge.

The charges stem from the reported abduction last March 25 of a Fort Smith woman, who reported that Brady used a knife to force her to accompany him in her car. She said she was assaulted near Greenwood and released in Oklahoma.

Brady was arrested the following day in McLean, Tex., by officers who were investigating the reported theft of the woman's car.

Searcy Grant for Swimming Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said Tuesday that the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation had approved a grant of $79,325 to finance construction of a swimming pool at Searcy. Work on the pool is to begin this fall.

Nixon's Hand Is Felt in Surtax Fight

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President

Nixon has reached from half-way around the world in an attempt at pressuring the Senate into extending the income surtax, in danger of dying at midnight Thursday.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Tuesday night he had been in communication with Nixon in Thailand. The President "is deeply concerned by the inability of the Senate to act and the injury this threatens to every citizen," Agnew said.

"He intends to discuss these matters frankly and fully with the American people upon his return Monday," the vice president went on. An aide said Nixon on might to on radio and television at that time to get the public behind him.

Prior to the statement by Agnew, who canceled a West Coast speaking engagement today to be on hand to fight for extension, the surtax appeared the probable victim of a Democratic Senate deadlock.

The temporary extension of payroll withholding rates including the surtax expires at midnight Thursday, and both sides in the dispute agree if this happens it will be very difficult to revive the surcharge.

The Senate Democratic Policy Committee held firm Tuesday on its proposal for a five-month extension of the surtax, rather than the one-year plan of the administration. The Democrats said their proposal would give the Senate time to work out a broad tax reform bill which they say must accompany continuation of the surtax.

And the Democrats turned the screws tighter by announcing they would not consider a 15-day extension of the paycheck withholding rates which the House approved Tuesday.

Although the administration again turned down the Democratic proposal, a possible break appeared in the Republican ranks when Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen said he favored accepting the temporary extension as the best that could be obtained.

Dirksen's comments came after an emergency meeting of the Republican Policy Committee with all minority senators attending. Also at the two-hour meeting were Agnew, Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy and Budget Director Robert P. Mayo.

However, Agnew later issued his statement rejecting the five-month extension and charging the Democratic leaders with using a "pocket veto" to legislate.

No Further Vietnam War Concessions — Nixon

By LEWIS GULICK

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — President

Nixon flew to Saigon today and declared the United States and South Vietnam could make no further peace concessions. Later he told U.S. soldiers at a nearby base that the war "may have been our finest hour."

Nixon flew first into the heart of Saigon becoming the first U.S. president to visit South Vietnam's capital. He was accompanied by his wife who made her own bit of history by touring a field hospital, and a home for war orphans. No other First Lady has visited South Vietnam.

Nixon also became the first president to visit a combat base in South Vietnam. He spoke to the American troops at Di An, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division 12 miles north of Saigon.

Nixon spent five hours and 25 minutes in Vietnam, much of it in conferences with President Nguyen Van Thieu and other government leaders.

A White House source said Nixon and Thieu discussed a new U.S. troop withdrawal order but no final decision was reached. He added they did not pin down the number to be withdrawn or the timetable but these details will be ironed out in the last half of August.

Nixon also discussed with Thieu the current lull in ground fighting and decided that if it proved to be enemy de-escalation the pullout of U.S. forces would be speeded, the source reported. But he said the United States has no evidence North Vietnam is withdrawing its forces but may be moving them into Laos and Cambodia.

He returned to Bangkok, Thailand, late today aboard the presidential plane and was whisked back to the palace from where he slipped away early in the day to begin his secret-shrouded trip. He will leave Thailand Thursday to continue his round-the-world trip.

In Di An, he pictured the war as worthwhile—even as he called it the most controversial in American history—because, he said, it may lead to the establishment of an enduring peace in Asia.

While meeting Thieu earlier at Saigon's Independence Palace, Nixon issued a statement reciting conciliatory moves and proposals made by Washington and Saigon in an effort to get

Storms Due in State by Thursday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Partly cloudy skies and warmer temperatures are expected in Arkansas through Thursday, the U.S. Weather bureau said today.

However, a cold front is advancing from the northwest and is expected to trigger thunder showers in the northwest portion of the state by late Thursday afternoon.

Temperatures were mild Tuesday with readings in the 80s during the hottest part of the afternoon. Temperatures Tuesday night were in the upper 50s in the higher elevations of the northwest and the 60s elsewhere.

Elective Judges Retained

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — After a day-long debate Tuesday, the state Constitutional Convention voted against proposals to provide for the appointment of judges to the state's Supreme Court and trial courts.

More than 30 delegates joined in debate of the measures. The appointment of Supreme Court justices was rejected on a vote of 39-47. The trial court appointment proposal was defeated 35-53.

Delegate C. R. Warner of Fort Smith introduced the proposal to provide for the appointment of trial court judges.

"Nobody has ever found a perfect way to select judges," he told the convention. "Mine isn't either, but I do say it is better than what we have."

He said that the election of judges by the people makes the judges obliged in a way to potential litigants.

But delegate W. H. Schulze of Russellville said the proposed system would "create a more interesting, intriguing, sophisticated type of politics — one not answerable to the people at all."

The proposals called for creation of a nominating commission of 10 persons. The commission would nominate three persons for each judicial position. The governor would name one of the three to the post.

After serving for eight years, the judge would then run for election to the office on the basis of his record.

If the voters elected the judge, he would continue in office, but if the voters rejected him, the commission would submit three more names for appointment to the position.

Tucker Acres Leased for Reformatory

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — The state Board of Correction agreed Tuesday to lease 3,500 of the 4,000 acres of Tucker Prison Farm to help establish an intermediate reformatory.

It was estimated that the arrangement would produce about $110,000 a year.

The acreage would be leased as of next Jan. 1. Leases would be on a year-to-year basis, the board said.

There has been some controversy over the fact that $49,000 appropriated by the legislature to help establish a reformatory to keep youthful offenders separate from older, veteran criminals has been spent at least in part for other things.

The board also indicated it would reject a proposal by the Legislative Council that its offices be moved from the state Capitol to Cummins Prison Farm.

Board Chairman John Haley said such a move would not be wise. He said the Department of Correction could function better at Little Rock. He also said a diagnostic center eventually will be created at Little Rock.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Effective August 1, 1969, the Hill-Tarpley Agency will merge with one of Southwest Arkansas' oldest and most stable agencies, The Anderson-Frazier Insurance Agency, Incorporated.

This merger came about in order to provide those many necessary services that only a larger agency could afford to provide in these days of rising costs. Today it is almost imperative that claims be handled promptly and fairly on the local level, that modern up to date data processing be utilized to keep accounts current and provide agency and assured with the latest techniques in policy writing and billings, and last but certainly not least to make sure that you are provided with continuing personal service in the handling of your insurance requirements.

We hope this move meets with your approval and we invite those of you who have been insured with the Hill-Tarpley Agency to stop in and visit with us. Your presence is always welcome.

Accidental Discovery

The felt hat dates back to A.D. 1000, when a Tibetan monk accidentally discovered that rabbit fur could be made into a durable material through heat, moisture and pressure.

Did you know that:
In Hawaii, you pay a yearly tax of 1.2-cent a pound on the family car?
In Colorado, a retired couple pays about 15 percent less state income tax than a husband and wife under 65, on $7,500 of taxable income?
In Florida, there's a $5,000 homestead exemption on property taxes for everyone.

regardless of age, while in Vermont the exemption can be as much as $15,000 for a retired couple?

These are among the hundreds of tax facts that can be dug out of a guide to state and local taxes published by the American Association of Retired Persons, giving special attention to the tax treatment of the over-65 and of retirement income.

It's apparent from these facts that it's advisable to choose your retirement home with an eye to the tax climate, as well as to the Weather Bureau's type of climate. Variations in tax concession for the retired from one state to another could amount to several hundred dollars a year for some couples.

The AARP's "Tax Facts for Older Americans" shows, for each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia, in some tax rates, extra personal exemptions for over-65, medical and drug deductions, property taxes and concessions, and other information needed to dethe over-65's on a form for concession on property (real estate) taxes and those that make no concession.

All but 12 states have a state income tax but more than half give special exemptions, deductions or credits to the over-65, ranging from the extra half of a regular personal exemption in Indiana to Hawaii's provision that persons over 65 who establish residence there are subject to tax only on income from Hawaiian sources.

Blood Tests Next for Astronauts

By PAUL REGER
AP-Aerospace Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 11 astronauts took important blood tests today in a search for possible infection by unknown—and improbable—moon microbes.

Blood for the tests was taken from moonmen Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. before they sat down to breakfast in their elaborate quarantined quarters. Blood was also taken from Dr. William Carpenter and engineer John Hirasaki, the astronauts' companions in quarantine.

The astronauts then started a day-long closed-circuit television debriefing before an audience of space officials. Plans called for a thorough review of the moon mission.

Armstrong and Aldrin watched pictures of Mars sent to earth by the Mariner spacecraft Tuesday night, but made no comment.

They watched the Mariner pictures on television, interrupting the screening in their quarters of the movie "Romeo and Juliet," a modern, adults-only version of the Shakespeare classic.

A spokesman said they returned to the movie just after seeing the television report on Mariner.

Collins stayed in his room during the evening and didn't see the movie or television, the spokesman said.

Blood tests on the astronauts and Hirasaki and Carpenter are considered vital in determining if lunar material is dangerous to man. The five were the first human beings to come in contact with matter from the moon.

Previous blood tests on the five men showed no ill effects or anything unusual. Dr. Carpenter said, but additional tests were needed to turn up possible early stage infection. A sign of this could be a rise in the count of white blood cells, which defend the body against harmful outside organisms.

The doctor added: "All our evidence to date shows there really is nothing there."

If the astronauts develop no illness that can be traced to the moon, the quarantine ends on Aug. 11. If an illness does develop, the quarantine could go on indefinitely.

The space agency announced that if all goes well the astronauts would make their first public appearance at a press conference planned for Aug. 12. They entered the lunar receive-

Reform Term Ordered for Prisoner

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Owen Harris Tuesday sentenced Edward Lee Ward, 21, of Hot Springs, to five years in a rehabilitation program to be designated by the federal attorney general.

Ward was convicted on an extortion charge. When first arrested he pleaded innocent, but last July 8 he changed his plea to guilty. Authorities said he acknowledged becoming intoxicated and attempting extortion.

The extortion was alleged to have been made in a telephone call last Dec. 19 from Hot Springs to Robert F. Mackle in Coral Gables, Fla. Mackle's daughter, Barbara, had been kidnapped, but not by Ward. She was found safe four days after her abduction.

The caller told Mackle that if he wanted his daughter returned safely, he should send $500 via Western Union to Robert J. Ward, federal agents reported.

Space agency officials said the mailroom at the Manned Spacecraft Center was being swamped by letters and telegrams to the moonmen.

More than 4,000 letters were received on Monday alone and an official said the number grows daily.

The Collegiate Quartet, student representatives of Bethany Nazarene College at Bethany, Okla., will appear at the Hope Church of the Nazarene Thursday, July 31, at 7:30 p.m.

The Quartet makes over 250 personal appearances annually in churches, civic clubs, summer youth camps, church conferences and campus activities.

Bethany Nazarene College is located just northwest of Oklahoma City. It's more than 1500 students come from 40 states, 14 foreign countries and represent 30 denominations.

750 More GIs Leave Vietnam

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Another 750 American troops left Vietnam today under President Nixon's plan to cut back U.S. strength by 25,000 men by the end of August.

The 4th Battalion, 39th Infantry of the 9th Infantry Division boarded planes at Bien Hoa air base north of Saigon for Hawaii. It will be held in ready reserve there at Schofield Barracks.

The battalion, now commanded by Maj. Ronald W. Crooks, of Albany, Calif., had been in Vietnam since Jan. 3, 1969.

The U.S. Command said the latest departure raised to 7,400 the number of American servicemen withdrawn from Vietnam since Nixon announced the cutoff June 8.

The withdrawal coincided with some increase of fighting in provinces around Saigon although the general lull in sustained ground action and enemy attacks moved into its seventh week today.

The biggest fight reported during the past 24 hours centered 30 miles west of Saigon and only four miles from the Cambodian border, along a key infiltration route.

U.S. infantrymen from the 25th Division and South Vietnamese irregulars reported 63 enemy soldiers and nine Americans killed in an eight-hour fight Tuesday. Ten Americans were wounded.

South Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

The American infantrymen swept in by helicopter to reinforce government reconnaissance troops who had run into North Vietnamese bunkers.

Twelve hours earlier other troops from the 25th Division killed 53 enemy soldiers in the same general area.

The U.S. Command reported that there were 11 rocket and mortar attacks across South Vietnam during the 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. Wednesday.

Two of these attacks were against U.S. units or installations but caused no American casualties, headquarters reported.

Egypt's Air Thrust Rated a Failure

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rebuilt Egyptian air force's first attempt to challenge Israeli air superiority since the Middle East war two years ago has failed, U.S. analysts say.

As a result, analysts say they believe the United Arab Republic lacks the air power necessary to support a major ground attack across the Suez Canal into the Sinai.

Instead, military experts forecast the UAR will concentrate in the months ahead on intensified local attacks on Israeli positions along the Suez Canal and on low level, hit-and-run air strikes with shallow penetration of Israeli air space.

This is seen as the significant of about two weeks of heavy air fighting in the Suez Canal area—fighting accompanied by new threats by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

In substance, the U.S. experts feel the Russians have succeeded in re-equipping the shattered Egyptian air force and training substantial numbers of new pilots who, however, still fall short of matching the Israeli air force in combat.

The U.S. assessments, gathered from a variety of sources, coincide with the judgments expressed by Israeli military officers stationed here. Egyptian military sources were not available and Syrian spokesmen refused to discuss military matters.

Surveying the outcome of recent air combat between the key Middle Eastern adversaries—the Israeli and the Egyptians—one U.S. general said:

"The Egyptians obviously don't think they are strong enough to launch any major ground assault."

"I can't conceive that they would dare cross the canal in force unless they had at least an even break in the air, which they don't have."

The Russians have spent an estimated $2 billion since the summer of 1967 to refit the Arab armies and air forces, particularly the UAR and Syrian military establishments, and to retrain troops and officer corps.

According to the latest intelligence information, the Arab countries outnumber the Israelis in military aircraft by 1,000 to about 350, in tanks about 2,500 to 1,000, and in men under arms about 445,000 to some 80,000. However, Israel can mobilize its reservists in 72 hours and raise its forces to about 275,000.

The Russians have provided the UAR air force with more SU-7 ground attack planes than they had before the six-day war, and this is considered important in battlefield support of infantry and armor.

The bulk of the Egyptian fighter force of some 330 planes include the well regarded MiG-21 and SU-7.

On the other side of Israel, the Syrian air force has some 150 to 200 jet fighters, most of them new, but Syrian pilots are considered decidedly second rate. The Jordanian air force of some 30 planes is considered of no military consequence.

Other Arab countries—Lebanon, Iraq and Saudi Arabia—do not figure importantly at this time in the air equation as it relates to the peace and war prospects in the Middle East.

The Israeli Air Force numbers some 285 fighters, light bombers, and fighter bombers, most of them of French manufacture. France refuses to ship replacement planes or additional planes to Israel.

But Israel is in the process of receiving 100 U.S. A-4 Sky Hawk fighter bombers, and late this year the United States will start sending the first of 50 F-4 Phantom jets, similar to the best fighters in the U.S. Air Force and Navy.

The Egyptians repositioned some 30 surface-to-air missile sites, mainly to defend Cairo and the Nile Delta, but also to screen approaches along the Suez Canal. Backing up these missile sites are some 30 improved radar installations.

Sources said the Egyptians counted on these defenses, plus better fighters to keep out air attackers, but the Israelis got through in the recent fighting.

Neither American nor Israeli sources consider there is much danger of any serious Egyptian bombing raids against Israel.

The Israelis are concerned about additional arms they say the Russians have agreed to send Nasser as a result of the Egyptian president's visit to Moscow last fall. The Israelis speak about possibly 100 to 200 more planes for the UAR, 500 more artillery pieces and 600 more tanks.

The Egyptians have done one thing which should save them from the total knockout that marked the beginning of the lightning war in June 1967: They built shelters for most of their planes on many airfields constructed in the last two years.

The Egyptians have reorganized their army and increased their ground forces from seven to 12 divisions.

The Russians have been supplying the Egyptians with new medium tanks, T-54 and T-55 models, to replace the old World War II vintage T-34 tanks.

The Israelis have about 20,000 more men under arms now than at the outset of the six-day war and their officers here say they have replaced tank losses, but refused to say where the additional Israeli armor is coming from.

Israeli equipment has been a mixed bag of British and American tanks, including some completely rebuilt World War II types.

Space is on the side of the Israelis this time. In 1967, the Egyptians moved thousands of troops across the Sinai Desert, which they then held, to Israel's border. Syria then dominated the heights overlooking Israel, and Jordan had respected forces on another Israeli flank.

Now, however, the Israelis hold the Golon Heights which they took from the Syrians, they occupy the west bank of the Jordan, and their lines are strung along the Suez Canal on the edge of Egypt proper.

Israel has built a fortified defense line along the canal and, although its officials will not discuss details, it is known there are mobile striking forces on reserve in the Sinai.

The Russians, according to Wednesday, July 30, 1969

U.S. estimates, have some 3,000 advisers with the Egyptian armed forces, ranging down to the company level.

Though it is acknowledged that Russian advice and guidance has resulted in some technical improvements in the UAR forces, the consensus is that the Soviets have had only limited success in bettering Egyptian military leadership and rank and file performance.

Another factor in the Arab-Israeli military balance is represented by some 15,000 guerrillas who have been mounting harassment attacks.

U.S. authorities say very few of the 15,000 are active guerrillas. Israeli sources estimate some 5,000 are any kind of a military factor.

However, there is agreement between U.S. and Israeli military experts that the guerrillas would be of small consequence in the outcome of a major new war in the Middle East, unless that war dragged on for six months or more.

Based on past experience, any new war would be a short one.

Not Exclusively a Man's World

By JOYCE GABRIEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO—(NEA)—What are little girls made of? Sugar and spice and—sometimes—ambition. When the ambition is strong enough, the young lady determined enough, a little girl can develop into a talented, productive individual. All she needs is the courage to be different.
Franette Ottolino is 17. She wants to become a teacher. But unlike her peers, Franette is not interested in teaching a language, or sewing, or math. She wants to teach industrial arts.
She first became interested in "shop" when she was a sophomore in Elmwood Park high school. She wanted to take several industrial arts courses to supplement her art curriculum. The courses sparked her interest, and she became the first female student to complete the industrial arts program. She studied woodworking, drafting, sheet metal work, welding, forging, pipefitting and machine shop.
"At first my friends didn't believe I was serious about shop," said Franette. "When they realized I was, they respected the fact that I was different."
The boys in her industrial arts classes presented another challenge.
"The boys either laughed at me or ignored me," Franette said. "They used to say things like, 'Here comes the smitty.' Or 'Do you take boys' gym, too?' Sometimes they really hurt my feelings."
But Franette took the teasing and concentrated on learning her trade. She maintained honor roll grades and outperformed most of the boys in her classes.
And while her distaff classmates are paying tribute to rock 'n' roll stars and football players, Franette reserved her hero worship for metals instructor, John Gregg.
"He's the image I want to obtain," Franette said. "He's understanding, sympathetic, always willing to help. He encouraged me, especially at first when I was scared. And he told me that what other people said didn't matter."
Gregg arranged for Franette to student-teach several shop survey courses and he taught her how to use the oxyacetylene torch for welding projects. "I told her," said Gregg, "that she is entering a man's world and must accept what goes on in it. When she made an error in her work, I chewed her out just like everyone else."

The boys in her classes discovered that what Franette lacked in strength—she's 5-6 and weighs 115 pounds—she made up for in skill and coordination.
One of the things she's most proud of is a metal sculpture she did on the theme of world peace.
"I called it 'The Sound of Music'—it was a globe with three men, all playing instruments," said Franette. "The music symbolized peace." She sold it to the Nursing Department at Northern Illinois University.
Determined to continue her studies in industrial arts, she wrote to institutions across the country asking for scholarship aid for college.
The Chemetron Corporation in Chicago reviewed her qualifications and decided to pick up the tab for Franette's studies in industrial technology at Illinois State University.
"I'm a little frightened about what's ahead of me," said Franette. "But I'm prepping for the demands of college this summer, by taking a course in welding and going to charm school, too."
